International Conference on Diaspora Literature:

Report

On Covid-19 background all educational activities were going online. Dept of English decided to organize an international Conference on Diaspora Literature at google meet platform on Monday 5th April 2021 with the permission of IQAC. Brochure of the conference was circulated on social media with an appeal to professors and students of English to register.

Dr. Elhan Hossain from Dhaka City College Dhaka, Bangaldesh was the chief guest of inaugural session and resource person for session I. Dr. Ashtha Pratap from RBD Mahila Mahavidyalaya, Bijnor, Uttar Pradesh and Dr. Sk. Sagir Ali from Midnapore Autonomous College, West Bengal were resource persons for session II and session III. More than 500 delegates registered online.

Monday, 5th April 2021, a webinar link was provided to the registered delegates. The webinar was inaugurated at the hands of Hon. Dr. Elhan Hossain. In his keynote address, he talked about the Diaspora Literature emerging out as a new genre of literature. He talked deliberately on his topic 'The role of Diaspora Literature in making an identity'. He talked on shadow lines by Amitav Ghosh.

Dr. Astha Pratap in Session II, talked about Diaspora Literature in all languages. In country like India, Diaspora Literature becomes common. Her topic was 'Diaspora Literature: A Cultural identity in Indian Literature'. Dr. Sagir Ali, in Session III, talked about 'Decoloniality and Literature'. In the processe of colonization and decolonization, Diaspora Literature came up in a great number.

Prin. Dr. S. R. Nimbore in his complementary close advocated the need of online teaching learning process. He said that Covid -19 and the consecutive lockdowns that followed made a loss to all sectors but also gave us many new things. Dr. Abhay Shinde compared the webinar while Prof. Nikhilkumar Bankar proposed vote of thanks. Out of 500 registered delegates only 235 actually joined with the google meet link. Questions were asked by some of the delegates online by raising hands while others communicated through chat box. They were answered by the concerned resource persons. E-certificates were issued to all delegates on their registered mail after submission of feedback. IQAC Coordinator Prof. N. N. Nanwate underlined that the Department of English has Participated maximum number of delegates. As the google meet link could not admit more than 250 delegates, others were provided with you tube link. Total 832 delegates participated.
