Departmental Profile

DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY

1. A) Importance of the Subject

History is one of the important subjects in arts faculty. It is defined as ‘A continual communication between the past and present’. It means that history is not related just with the past, but it has a connection with the present and future also. It decides the undercurrents of the present society. If we do not know the past, it becomes quite difficult to take decisions in the present which will shape our future. Such is the importance of history.

In an ancient times history was just a story of Kings and Queens but in modern times its scope has changed. Whether history is an art or a science, was also a point of constant debate, but now it’s became a social science. The human element of history makes it an interesting subject for all. Francis Bacon, a famous English thinker says that, ‘History makes man wise’. From the students’ point of view, history is one of the major subjects for the aspirers of Competitive Exams.

B) Scope of History

Today History is not just a record of events but it is an independent branch of study which deals with arts, religion, architecture, traditions, aesthetics, etc. It helps in factual understanding of the things. It increases knowledge, understanding and it creates awareness of time and space, among the society and its culture. It promotes values; it makes us respect the opinions of our fellow beings. It gives us courage to handle notorious issues with complete sympathy. It inculcates loyalty to the nation. In short, history becomes useful for shaping the personality of balanced future citizens. Hence it is a comprehensive and all-encompassing subject.

History narrates the past which is seen in all its resources too. As Logilos and Sinbos say, ‘No documents no history.’ It enlarges human experience. It makes him understand the co-relation between a series of events. Prof. Alton in his book ‘The Practice of History’ states, ‘Historical knowledge gives solidity to the understanding of the present and may suggest guiding lines for the future’.

Moreover, history gives rational attitude and increases reasoning power. R.G. Collingwood in his book, ‘Idea of History’ speaks of the scope of history in the following words, ‘History has a value, its teachings are useful for human life, simply because the rhythm of its change is likely to repeat itself. Similar antecedents leading to similar consequents,’ the history of notable events is worth remembering in order to serve as a basis for prognostic, judgments not demonstrable but probable laying down not what will happen, but what is likely to happen, indicating the paints of danger in rhythms now going on.
