Part B. Technical Details of the Project

1. Title of the Proposal:

“Speaking Skill: A Significant Role of Audio Aids”

2. Scientific Rational of the Proposal: There are four basic skills of learning any language. Listening is the very first of all skills. Without listening speaking is impossible. With listening anybody can speak any language. If college students lacking speaking competency be given audio aids, they will get an opportunity to listen standard English and ultimately they will speak English at their own pace.

3. Review of status in the subject

3.1 International Status:

English is said to be an international language. It is also called a language of opportunities. In India 80% people use English as their official language. Indian libraries have more than 70% books in English. People all over the world strive to learn English. The countries, who don't promote English, lag behind in international affairs and trades.

3.2 National Status:

India is a multilingual country. It has diverse cultural and religious background. Many languages and dialects are spoken in India. In the post colonial era English received a prominent position in administration. With technical revolution communication to West progressed by leaps and bounds. Many Indians find employment in Western countries. Non Resident Indians prefer to come back to India. Hence English language gets optimum significance.

3. Importance of the proposed project in the current status:

In rural India students at UG level have a special phobia regarding Speaking English. Students can read, write, listen and understand English but they find difficult to speak English with proper intonation and stress patterns. Variety of books, cassettes, study material and coaching classes are available. Online courses too are available on internet, Google, You tube, Face book and other social media but still students fail to speak. They need proper training and practice. They should learn how to record one's own speech and listen to it so as to achieve further improvement. The said proposal has following objectives,

- i) To help students at UG level to get rid of phobia of speaking English.
- ii) To provide them free and easy access to language laboratory.
- iii) To encourage them practice speaking, recording and listening.
- iv) To encourage them use language laboratory in general and audio aids in particular.

5. Work Plan

5.1 Methodology: Students having special phobia for speaking English will be identified. A group of students will be taken to language lab. They will be given some ideal extracts to listen to with headphone. The same extract will appear on computer screen before them. Students will read and listen simultaneously. After listening to ideal speeches they can read aloud and record the same. Listening to self recorded speeches they will find out their own limitations. Practicing the same will improve their pronunciation, intonation and stress patterns.

5.2 Time Schedule of activities through BAR diagram:

Sr. No.	Work to be Done	Time Required
1	Identification of students with phobia for speaking English	15 days
2	Introduction of language laboratory to the target students	60 days
3	Listening to model extracts	60 days
4	Reading the extracts on computer screen aloud	60 days
5	Recording and listening to self recorded speeches	60 days
6	Report writing	80 days

5.3 Suggested plan of action for utilization of research outcome:

Budget is required for the software and computer appliances. Students belong to rural area and need special training, coaching and traveling too. Equipment of language laboratory is necessary. After sufficient practice of listening with audio aids students will gain confidence in speaking English fluently.

Form must be type written. Hand written forms will be rejected/ changes in this format is not allowed. Submit two copies.

Part B. Technical Details of the Project

1. Title of the Proposal: Historical Sites in Ashti: A Hidden Treasure

2. Scientific Rational of the Proposal: India is rich with cultural heritage and historical monuments. Almost every village has significant historical sites which could help in the study of archeology. Ashti in Beed district of Marathwada region in Maharashtra state has a number of castles, temples, mosques, wells, manuscripts, monuments. A scientific study with historical approach can reveal a good sample of architecture available in Ancient India.

3. Review of status in the subject

3.1 International Status: Archeology is a subject of immense value for various reasons. It is based on field work and explorations. The study of antiques, pottery and other remains is mainly significant in the archeological research. Further he has pointed that pottery is one of evidences of old remains. The archeology is not based on common chart but it is based on field work. The study of remains in Ashti also throw light on new aspects of life. All these aspects are clearly related to each other and these are important factors responsible for conducting research. The careful and critical study of archeological remains of Ashti Taluka can provide a new angle for the present work.

3.2 National Status:

Ashti and its periphery have a rich and glorious past and it requires a new perspective to look at. All these facts can best very well studied by conducting fresh archeological explorations. The careful study of the archeological remains of Ashti area has provided some new facts which have been highlighted in this work. The present work is thus significant enough to throw light on the new areas which are unexplored.

Ashti is an ancient taluka place and it has rich historical past. Ashti has been recorded with legends and mythological stories. Ashti means Peace, a gift of god. The various rulers governed to this area with historical background. Ashti was also known as a die for playing. The study of ancient archeological remains of Ashti has provided many aspects of this study and they have led to the unfolding of cultural history of Ashti and its surroundings.

4. Importance of the proposed project in the current status:

Ashti plays a very important role in history from ancient to modern time. Ashti connects Maratwada and Westen Maharashtra. In Ashti there are many temples built by Yadavas just like: Pimpleswar Temple, Ashti, Jogeswari Temple, Pargaon, Devi Mandir, Sangvi, Khadkeswar temple Khadkat, Mandaveshwar temple Mandwa, Hanuman temple, Patan Sangavi, Ram temple, Koyal etc. Also there are some beautiful mosques in this area like: Hajrat Fatesaha Bukahri Masque, Kali Majid, Hajrat Burhanudin Masque, Also one can see monuments or gravestone of the person with historical significance in Ashti area like: Burhanuddin Auliya, Nihars Ghorī, and other Ghorī family Members.

The great Chakradhar Swami lived in Ashti area. Leelacharitra mention so many places of Ashti area. In this area some fortresses are seen in a bad condition. Ashti, Kada, Bhalwani, Daula Vadgaon are the main. Also this area was famous for Nath Cult one of the famous Shivbhakti cult. Gahininathgad and cave are also historical places in this area.

5. Work Plan

5.1 Methodology:

The study will be based on primary as well as secondary data. In the historical research methodological devices are significant because these sources play a vital role in the entire process of the archeological literary sources. Karl Pearson has opined that "There is no short cut to the truth no way to gain knowledge of the universe except through the gateway of scientific method." Further he has noted that "Scientific method is one and the same in all branches and that method is the method of all logically trained minds." The subject like archeology and history is also no exception to this.

The study of historical and ancient sites in Ashti and its periphery can be conducted by decoding various sources in a systematic manner. Along with these archeological and literary sources, there are other sources like folk media and local legends.

E.C.H. Carr has defined history as unending dialogue between the present and the past. According to Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, "History means the various events of the past given in the form of record during the present period." In order to study the historical background of Ashti taluka we have to understand how the people of Ashti were correlating dialogue with the past.

Descriptive Research Design: In the historical research, descriptions of facts are very much important. The archeological sources, monuments, mosques and temples can be described here for highlighting different facts. The entire subject is based on documentation and analysis of sources. About descriptive design Bhandarkar and Wilkinson have noted that. Hence in this work useful source material has been collected properly.

Primary and Secondary Sources: The historical studies are based on the primary and secondary sources. These sources can be noted here. The visit to historical sites, their photography and documentation is a primary source. The scholar has visited sites and seen the documents properly. Further the published material in various books and journals have been documented. The websites of Maharashtra state and other historical research boards have been documented here properly. All these sources matter a great deal.

5.3 Suggested plan of action for utilization of research outcome:

Ashti and its periphery have a rich and glorious past and it requires a new perspective to look at. All these facts can be very well studied by conducting fresh archeological explorations. The careful study of the archeological remains of Ashti area has provided some new facts which have been highlighted in this work. The present work is thus significant enough to throw light on the new areas which are unexplored.
